Production Process

Investment casting also can be called "precise casting" or "lost wax casting" or "dewaxing casting". The casting materials can widely use and no limitation for product shape as well as complex structure. The most important characteristic is the close tolerances control, reduced machining allowances, and fine surface finish.

Its application scope can be wider after using the new equipment and advanced technology. In heat processing industry, investment casting can be used for those products which difficult to choice the materials, or materials not easy to form a shape, as well as some forging pieces with higher cost; while in the casting industry, the investment casting can be used instead of other casting methods, so as to reduce machining allowances and the cost, improve the dimensional precision and surface finish as well as the mechanical properties, so as to meet the requirements of a higher level product. Further information, please don't hesitate to contact with us, we will give you the most satisfied reply.

We undertake the processing cooperation for drawings and samples at home, even all over the world, if you need to inquire about price, please submit the related information, we will offer you a most favorable price as soon as possible.
